

“That Must Have Come From Your Side of the Family!”

Keynote Speech

Millie McNabb, B.A., B.Mus., Founder, Christian Values Legacy

Have you ever wondered how that cute baby that looks just like you, could have such a mind of its own? Or perhaps you've experienced a couple of angelic children that had you thinking "this parenting is easy," only to be blessed with a wild and crazy child that threw your home into chaos.

Millie introduces the temperament spectrum and how to customize your parenting to encompass God's unique design of each family member. Based on the work of Drs. Richard and Phyllis Arno, Millie shows how to direct your child in a Godly path, based on the way he/she is God-designed.

“We taught our daughters about right and wrong, but also that there are some things that are simply different preferences. We used the phrase, ‘It’s not wrong; it’s different’ to acknowledge to each other that we could function uniquely within the family without giving or taking offense.”

--Millie McNabb

The Temperament Spectrum explains many behaviors as Millie explores the three areas of your God-given design:

- Surface relationships and intellect
- Intimate relationships and emotions
- Control and decision-making

Millie highlights how you can use this information to enhance the strengths you've been given and build liaisons to cover your weaknesses. These team-building techniques can be taught within the family, and applied to church, work, or other groups throughout life.

Invite Millie to speak at your next event, seminar or retreat.
